A NEW CITY HALL.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 6.—The Common Council at its regular meeting this afternoon adopted resolutions to erect a new city hall adjacent to the present Court house, at a cost of $350,000. It was also resolved to ask the State Legislature for aid to carry the project into immediate execution, the same to be paid within twenty-five years.

CONFUSION AT A CIRCUS.

CITY OF MEXICO, March 6.—A terrible hailstorm visited this city last night, causing great consternation among the crowd at the circus. Within five minutes tons of hail bore down the canvas and with it the poles, extinguishing the lights. The scene was frightful, as the women, screaming and fainting, and panic-stricken people scrambled for the exits, and rushing ankle deep through the water. Fortunately the casualties were slight, two men only being seriously injured by falling poles, although many were slightly hurt in the confusion.

A SENSATION.

CHICAGO, March 6.—The lecture season in Chicago would not be complete without the annual visit of that renowned pulpit orator, the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher. He comes year after year, and at each visit is welcomed by audiences as large as it were possible to get together in any hall in the city. To-night was no exception, and Central Music hall was crowded far beyond its seating capacity with a cultured audience. It was said that so many people had not been in the hall since the campaign meetings there two years ago. It was 8:15 when Professor Swing and the lecturer made their way through the crowd on the platform to the front where stood two vacant chairs. They were greeted with a storm of applause, and after acknowledging this reception, Mr. Beecher was seated while Professor Swing spoke a few words by way of introduction. He said that about thirty-two years ago, when he left an obscure and lonely farm to go to college, he had heard of Washington, Jefferson, and Henry Clay, but not of Henry Ward Beecher. But an old uncle of his had tried Mr. Beecher's father for heresy and he knew the name of Lyman Beecher very well. This man Lyman Beecher afterward came to the college where he was a student. He admitted the great preacher, and when one of the boys said that Lyman Beecher had a son who surpassed his father in eloquence, he denied it on the ground that the sons of great men never amounted to anything. But Lyman Beecher had, it seemed, reared his son to be a great man. He even overdid it. This was all right for Henry, but was hard upon all the rest of them. It was a pleasure, said Prof. Swing, to introduce to such an audience one who had been ever on the side of justice and humanity during a long life—one who had led the church out of error, the slave out of chains, and humanity away from many of its mistakes and prejudices. (Applause.) Mr. Beecher had not been well for two days, and when he rose to speak it was apparent that he did not feel himself. He spoke slowly and with some difficulty for half an hour, and then there was a pause. He began another sentence, but stopped, his eyes closed, and his tall form away as though he would fall prostrate on the floor. A gentleman down in front saw that the speaker was fast becoming unconscious, and called to those on the platform to take hold of him and assist him to a chair. This was done, and there ended the lecture, for Mr. Beecher was unable to go on.

CONKLING DECLINES.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—President Arthur has received a letter from ex-Senator Conkling declining to accept the associate justiceship of the Supreme Court tendered him. Of course there are many rumors and surmises as to the causes which led the ex-Senator to pursue this course. Some say he prefers to keep in the political arena for the purpose of showing his enemies that he retains his old power in shaping the destinies of his party in the Empire State, and thus vindicating himself from the charges that have been brought against him of holding his influence in consequence of the Government patronage at his disposal as a member of the Senate. It is a well-known fact that Mr. Conkling has never meddled with the patronage of his State only so far as his position required him to give his advice to the executive in the selection of men, all stories to the contrary notwithstanding. It is a fact that Mr. Conkling has secured an immense law practice since he retired to private life which he is loath to leave for a position which will prevent him from having an opportunity to vindicate and place himself right in the eyes of the people.

THE MEDICAL BILL.

MADISON, March 6.—Protests have been coming in from all sections of the State against the passage of the medical bill introduced by Assemblyman Eidemiller, and directed against quackery. Messrs. Perry and Bishop, of the committee on medical societies, are both in possession of numerous letters, petitions and remonstrances, directed against the passage of the bill, and among them one from Milwaukee physicians. There is now no question about the fate of the bill, as the committee will be forced, as they themselves state, to report it back for indefinite postponement.

MILWAUKEE FAILURE.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 6.—The wholesale paper-house of Hamilton Bros. & Co. made an assignment for the benefit of its creditors to-day. The liabilities are placed at $10,000. The amount of the assets has not been reported. It is thought the creditors will not lose much. The firm succeeded the C. H. Hamilton

Paper company January 1. It has given credit quite liberally, and was operating on small capital. Thorough collections would have prevented the failure. The preferred creditors scheduled are as follows: Agawam Paper company, Mittenewage, Mass., $1,000; J. W. Butler Paper company, Milwaukee, $550; J. J. Acton, Milwaukee, $1,800.

Our Glorious Independence.

What can be more glorious than to be independent of suffering, caused by dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation, sick-headache, or other diseases emanating from the stomach. This can be easily gained by a timely use of BUCKEBOO BLOOD PURIFIER. Price $1.00, trial size 10 cents. Sold by A. J. Roberts, and Sherr & Co.

BID FOR BUSINESS.

MILWAUKEE, March 6.—The Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul company will tomorrow issue a new tariff circular giving the rates from Chicago or Milwaukee to the Northwest, including all the points on the Northern Pacific, Manitoba, and Canada Pacific railways. The company will also publish a new and thorough, emigrant schedule, showing reduced rates to points on the roads above named for immigrants and immigrant movables.

Joseph Durringer, Broadway, Buffalo, was induced by his brother to try THOMAS' ELECTRIC OIL for a sprained ankle; and with half a dozen applications he was enabled to walk around again all right. Sold by A. J. Roberts and F. Sherr & Co.

Milton.

—The Milton Cornet band will give a concert at college chapel next Monday evening, the 13th inst. Admission 25 cents. The programme will include overtures, selections, waltzes, quicksteps, etc., by the full band and reed band, several numbers by the soloists, and solos by the noted cornet player, Mr. C. F. Bingham, who has very kindly consented to present, Mr. R. H. Saunders and Mr. C. M. Post and a character song by Mr. W. B. Anderson. This will be the most pleasing entertainment that the organization have presented, and we trust that the citizens of this town will favor them with a very liberal patronage.

—The Milton Choral Union, under the direction of N. Wardner Williams, will give a concert in college chapel this Thursday evening. Soloists, Miss Mina Martin, soprano. Miss Ella G. Davis, piano. Miss Florence Cook, piano. Miss Hortense Rogers, piano. Miss Ella G. Burdick, piano. Mr. W. B. Anderson, bass. Mr. P. A. Babcock, tenor. Mr. Evan Davis, cornet. Mr. R. H. Smith, violin. Miss Marie Goodrich, pianist of the Choral Union. Reading by Mrs. W. F. Place. Admission 25 cents. Concert at 7:30 o'clock.

—Professor C. M. Gates, of the Berlin high school, made his Milton friends a short visit last Saturday and Sunday. He is enjoying his usual good health, and reports that his school is flourishing finely.

—Professor H. C. Curtis, of the Juneau public schools, made his Milton relatives a visit Saturday. He is blessed with good health, and his school is doing very nicely.

—The Waukesha Spring Bed company, Seth & Bushee, proprietors, have decided to make this village their headquarters, and have rented the shop owned by Jed Davis, on College street, where they are engaged in manufacturing their patent spring beds. The firm intend to do quite an extensive business.

—Mrs. Tacy A. Collins, who has been stopping in St. Peter, Minn., for some months, returned to this village last week.

—Dr. W. S. Post, corresponding editor of the Chicago Herald, was in town Friday, the guest of Mr. F. W. Henderson. His lecture, which was to be delivered last Saturday night, was postponed on account of a lecture at the college.

—A series of revival meetings began at the Seventh Day Baptist church Tuesday evening, under the lead of Rev. A. H. Miner, who is in the employ of the State Christian Association.

—R. H. Saunders will play a clarinet solo at the Band concert, and it will be worth hearing.

—The students' spelling contest took place in college chapel, on Thursday evening, and about seventy-five took part. After the list of 400 words had been spelled some thirty remained standing not having missed a word. These organized themselves into an old-fashioned spelling school, and George M. Henderson was the winner.

—C. F. Saunders, baritone player in the Cornet band, has secured an engagement in the Soldiers' Home band, in Milwaukee. He will play here at the concert however. Mr. Saunders is a fine musician and we are glad he has secured a good position.

—C. M. Post will play an alto solo at the band concert, and no one can afford to miss hearing him.

—J. J. Holmes, agent of the St. Paul railroad company at Western Avenue transfer, made his Milton friends a call last Monday. Mr. Holmes is not a shadow by any means.

—Mr. Joshua Clark, a student from the town of Albion, met with a serious accident last Friday afternoon. He boarded the Janesville freight for the purpose of riding down to Kiley's switch, on his way to the Junction, and in attempting to get off was thrown onto the road-bed, striking his head and face against a tie. He was picked up in an unconscious condition, and taken into Kiley's house. A comrade who was with him, Mr. Forgerson, came to the village and got Doctor O. Allen, who found a bad scalp wound and the cheek bone broken in two places, besides some other cuts upon his face. He was taken to his room in the Gen's hall the same evening and is doing as well as could be expected, and it is thought that he will get along all right, but his escape from death was a narrow one and should be a warning to the large number who are in the habit of jumping on moving trains.

—Do not fail to hear Bingham's cornet solo at the band concert Monday evening.

—Our tobacco buyers are not selfish and will handle a few cases of tobacco in the new warehouse at the Junction. They have bought a quantity of tobacco for another firm, and the same have been brought over-crowded they thought best to handle their late purchases at the Junction.

—Alvin Burdick, of Minnesota, was in town last week buying a few head of horses for his thirty-two hundred acre farm. He intends to sow five or six hundred acres of wheat this spring.

—George Johnson is back from White-water and the calf trade will soon begin to boom.

—John Alexander has been on the sicklist for two weeks and is confined to his bed yet. His stomach and lungs are both affected and fears are entertained that he will not recover his health of former years.

HUMORS OF THE DAY.

HAPLESS sons of clay are frequently bricks.

When a man is cremated, does he go to the burn from which no traveler returns?

A CORRESPONDENT of the Chicago Inter-Ocean signs herself "Alice Carlyle." She makes us smile.

The true way for a woman to drive a nail is to aim the blow square at her thumb. Then she'll at least avoid hitting her thumb, anyway.—Boston Post.

ESTHETIC: The "utterly utter" kind of talk has infected the street gamins, one of whom, after picking up a more than usually fragrant cigar stump, exclaimed to his friend: "Jaek, this is quite too positively bulky."

A New York horse that attacked and killed a man is believed to be insane. They've got so used to accounting for the killing of men on the theory that the killer was insane, that next they'll be allowing insanity against the engine that runs over a man.—Boston Post.

PAPA: "That picture shows the story of Prometheus and the vulture that fed on his liver. Every day the vulture devoured it, and every night it grew for him to eat again." Sympathetic child—"Poor, dear old vulture. How sick he must have been of liver every day."

"Who ever saw a farmer," asks the Philadelphia Times, in deep conviction, "stopping the plow to ask himself if life were worth the living?" But did the Philadelphia Times ever see a farmer when the plow had stopped him and he lay doubled over between the handles?

There is a young lady in Keokuk, Iowa, who is six feet four inches tall, and she is engaged to be married. The man who won her did it in these words: "Thy beauty sets my soul afloat. I wed thee, right or wrong; man wants but little here below, but wants that little—long."—Buffalo Express.

FIRST YOUNG LADY—"I like them both, but I've made up my mind to marry Tom." Second Young Lady—"Why, Minnie, Charlie is ever so much handsomer." First Young Lady—"Yes, I know it; but Tom's in the hairpin business, and father says there's a big margin in hairpins."—Boston Courier.

I DARED, I'm free to confess, on her hair, it was wondrously long and so charmingly fair; and so when one evening we walked on the pier, I whispered the tenderest words in her ear. Then a strong wind arose, and she blushed red.

As it blew all that beautiful hair off her head; She was bald as an egg, and I blushed that hard breeze. For disclosing that fact by the shimmering seas.

SAID A YOUNG LAWYER, not long ago: "I've made $10 this week." "How?" "Well, I got $10 for a case, and I borrowed $30." The story is not unlike one told of Henri Mager, that noted Parisian bohemian. "What is your income?" he was once asked. "It is hard to tell," was the reply, "but in good years I can borrow at least 10,000 francs."—New Orleans Times.

MOSE SCHAMMUNO, returning from market with a basket full of spare ribs for his Sunday dinner, was horrified at seeing four or five of his children leaning half way over the second story window. "Children," exclaimed the excited parent, "go away from that window. Ven you all falls out and breaks your necks, den you vill say it was not you done it. Go pack I tells you."—Texas Siftings.

Touching Words. Respecting the removal of the Ute Indians, occurring some time ago, the Solid Muldoon, published on the frontier, says: "Now, laying aside all animosity, we ask, is there to-day, upon the frontier, a human heart that does not throb with sympathy for those untutored beings? Take the lesson home to yourself. Think of your being forced from scenes and possessions that are rendered dear and dear by childhood's happy recollections. Think of having to leave forever those dear ones who lay away to await the resurrection morn, and leaving them with a knowledge that ere your footprints have been obliterated by the dews of heaven, the plow of the paleface will have leveled the little mounds and completed the work of desolation. "Fellers, it's rough."

POLISH women are very beautiful. Perhaps, as a race, they are the most beautiful women in the world. Bayard Taylor declares that he saw more handsome faces in Warsaw in an hour at the races than he saw in all the rest of Europe in two years.

MR. ALCOCK told the Concord School of Philosophy that "Actuality is a thingness of the Here." In the east this sort of thing is culture; here in the west it is drunk and disorderly, with a few of ten dollars or thirty days in jail.—Peck's Sun.

PARK NOTES.
CORN IN DRILLS.—The advantage of drill planting over hill planting are: Larger yield per acre, better quality of corn, fewer short ears and a great saving in time and labor. Put one kernel in a place, from fifteen to eighteen inches apart in the drill.
MUCK.—Muck is cooling to the soil in summer and warming in winter; it collects moisture and retains it; it aerates the soil, is a reservoir of ammonia and other elements of plant food, not the least of which are its crumbling shells and fragments of petrifications.
Too MUCH SEED.—The experiments of enterprising and intelligent farmers go to prove that too much seed is generally used in raising potatoes. One, or at most two, eyes to the hill have given the best results. The commercial fertilizers generally give smoother and sounder tubers than barnyard manure.
SCAB IN SHEEP.—Mix a little sulphur with the salt when salting sheep that are ailing with the scab. Dipping the sheep in a decoction of tobacco is one of the best remedies, beside giving the skin a healthy action and insuring a nice white fleece. After dipping the animal, rub thoroughly with a woolen rag. Dip three times at intervals of a week.
WASHING PIGS.—Frequent washing with soap suds, says Col. F. D. Curtis, in the Rural New Yorker, keeps the pigs in great deal of good, and should always be practiced if they get dirty. Young pigs will never thrive well in a filthy pen. If the dam is unclean, the pigs are liable, when suckling, to get sore about the head and around their mouths, which will stunt them. When this is the case they should be thoroughly washed and oiled.
DUST BATH FOR FOWLS.—Get ready a dust bath for the fowls in some bright, sunny place. If it can be put under a shed with a southern exposure, where the sun will fall on it a part of the day and where it will be shielded from the rain, so much the better. Road dust and sifted coal ashes, with a plentiful sprinkling of sulphur, is the best. Never use wood ashes. Do not spread it about, but mound it up. The fowls will soon scatter it.

PEARS.—An Eastern subscriber asks for a list of eight or ten of the best varieties of this fruit. For profit or home use perhaps the following will give the best satisfaction: Louise Bonne, Lawrence, Duchesse d'Angoulême, Sheldon, Bartlett, Benne d'Anjou, Urbaniste and Beurre d'Harley. The Lawsons and Goldenes are also varieties. The Vicar which is only a hazy name, is the only winter pear worth raising.—New York Herald.
CORNED MEAT.—This is a rich food and must be used sparingly. Being a concentrated food it should be fed in connection with grass or roots, but never with dry fodder. For pigs mix a pound of the meat with a barrel of slops and give one feed of it every day. Horses may have two pounds daily with corn meal; that quantity being considered equal to ten pounds of oats. Milch cows should have more than two pounds daily, while for calves from two to four ounces are sufficient.
TOBACCO STALKS.—Tobacco stalks should be saved, but should not be allowed to dry before being covered up with manure or muck. Before being covered it is best to cut them into short pieces, then put a layer of muck or manure on the ground about six inches thick, then a layer of stalks about the same thickness, continuing this method until all the stalks are used. They will soon begin to ferment and rot, and the result will be that from an acre of tobacco you will get a cord of the best kind of manure.

STRAWBERRIES.—A London gardener planted a strawberry bed one foot across his garden, on one side of which potatoes were planted. These were dug up about the end of June, the ground leveled and muck smoothened, so that the runners established themselves and formed a new bed. The next season a similar process was pursued, and thus a moveable strawberry bed was created. At the end of three years the original plants were exhausted and dug up, though the bed annually grows wider without renewal or transplanting.
BREEDING FARM HORSES.—We have encouraged the use of the large imported horses of the better class, because we have thought that one of the greatest defects in our farm horses was want of size, and this, it seemed to us, could better be supplied by an infusion of the blood of the draught horse than from any other source. But we are certain that in many localities quite as large an infusion of this blood has been made as will be profitable, and that, for the uses of the farmer, better horses can be produced from these grade draught mares by the use of a stout, large, compactly-built thoroughbred horse, or a highly-bred, well-formed and good-sized trotting stallion than by a further infusion of the blood of the draught horse. Returning again to the Percheron blood, we have no hesitation in affirming our belief in its excellence, and that it is to this blood, which at a very early day was introduced into Canada, that the excellence that distinguished them fifty years ago. Very many of the very best sires of general purpose or farm horses that we have ever had in the United States have been brought from Canada, and evidently partook largely of this blood. From that country we have had the Pilots, the Corbuses, the Columbes, the St. Lawrence, the Royal Georges, the Napoleons, the Normans, and many other recognized families of superior excellence, which we believe derived their merit mainly from the old Percheron blood, brought over by the French settlers, rather than from an imaginary scion of imported Messenger, spirited in some mysterious manner across the border, as a certain self-styled "Horse Authority" in this country has told us over and over again. And while, as we have said, in many sections we have had quite as much of the coarse, draught-horse blood introduced as will give a fine, yet we are clearly of opinion that we can never get too much of the genuine Percheron blood in any part of our country, where the production of hardy, useful horses is the object in view.—National Live-Stock Journal.

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.
—Poplar wood in considerable quantities is being shipped from Rockbridge County, Virginia, to Philadelphia, at $10 per cord, to be converted into paper.
—Experiments now make it appear that not only do iron and silver possess the property of retaining large amounts of gas for an indefinite period, but that this is also the case with aluminum and magnesium.
—In seeking for a substance which would destroy the microscopic animals in water without injury for drinking purposes, Dr. Langfeldt found that citric acid (one-half gramme to every liter of the water) killed all the living organisms, except cyclops and those with thick epidermis, within two minutes.
—An ingenious method has recently been brought forward for the welding of steel, as well as in the restoration of burnt steel. For this purpose a compound is used, consisting of sulphur or other salt of copper, resin, and salt ammoniac. This is thrown upon the metal under treatment, thereby becoming incorporated with it.
—The most durable article of bolt lacing, it appears, may be made as follows: A dry, untanned horsehide is soaked in water until soft enough to cut, and then cut into strings; these are made soft and pliable for sewing by "sawing" them over a square-cornered iron, and the belt is then sewed with the hair side inward the first time across, and outward on the finish, so that the hair takes all the wear. After the string has dried it is as solid as any books.

—The Scientific American says that the prejudice against American hemlock-tanned leather has disappeared, and English tanners now appreciate its excellent qualities. Its capabilities for resisting water and withstanding wear by attrition in the soles of boots and shoes are said to be quite equal to those of the best English sole-leather, and greatly superior to the leather of English "mixed" tannages or the generally poor sole-leather made on the Continent of Europe.
—A German named Schmidt has patented a school slate which consists essentially of a stiff piece of white cardboard covered with artificial or paper parchment prepared by the action of sulphuric acid upon unsized paper. They are set in the ordinary wooden frame, and furnish a cheap and indestructible slate. The ordinary size sells for 30 pfennings (7 1/2 cts.). He also makes a peculiar kind of ink for use with these slates, called "children's ink" (Kindertinte). It is made of harmless mineral colors and a solution of dextrine, and has an advantage over common ink, that the blots which children are sure to make can be easily washed out with cold water. The same slate can also be used to write on with ordinary ink or lead-pencil, and both washed off with an ordinary sponge.

PITH AND POINT.
—The home paper having said, "Great credit is due Mr. Smith," etc., Smith showed the paragraph to his grocer.
—There is a story told of a fine old Cornish squire who only drank brandy on two occasions—when he had goose for dinner and when he had not.
—The Government has accepted for the use of our alleged navy the "Lay Haight torpedo." We thought to make the pun, but it is hoped the machine will be effectively Lay out all invaders.—Norristown Herald.
—"Should a man shave up or down?" asked a youthful clerk, fresh from school. "That depends. When I shave you, for instance, I always shave down," replied the barber, with emphasis on the last word.
—A young lady who graduated from the Lawrence High School last July is teaching school up in New Hampshire. A bashful young gentleman visited the school the other day, and was asked by the teacher to say a few words to the pupils. This was his speech: "Scholars, I hope you will always love your school and your teacher as much as I do." Tableau, giggling girls and boys and a blushing schoolma'am.—Dwell Courier.

—A correspondent writes to us to know which in our judgment is the safest seat in case of a railroad collision, as he wishes to settle a controversy with some friends. From a long and painful study in this matter, and calling to our aid a ripe experience, we would say without fear of successful denial that the safest seat in case of a railroad collision is the top rail of a reliable fence about four miles in a northeasterly direction from the collision.—Laraine Boomerang.
—Since the late disaster on the Hudson River Railroad passengers all crowd into the front cars, refusing to ride in the rear car. The Buffalo Express says that the companies will probably let off that car entirely. The same man who invented a process for giving every advertiser a place at the top of the column on the outside page of a newspaper will give his attention to this new problem.
—Question in a French journal: "When a lady receives a visit from a gentleman, ought she to rise or remain seated when the visitor enters and when he takes his leave?" If the lady lives in Washington, says an American paper, she will rise without regard to Parisian etiquette and accompany him as far as the hall, to see that he doesn't carry off a ten-dollar ivory handled umbrella in place of the dollar-and-a-half cotton one usually carried by visitors.
Thackeray's House.
The author of "Vanity Fair," far from fortunate in the most intimate of his domestic relations, yet desired above all things to found a home. To that end he built the handsome Queen Anne house, within a half-minute's walk of High Street, Kensington, close to the Old Palace. There, surrounded by friends, the choicest spirits of his age, he lived, and wrote, and died. The same time the incident of his life, "still life" which the gentle spirit so dearly prized, and the red brick house, with its pleasant library and billiard-room, its glazed veranda, and cozy town garden, fell into the hands of strangers. Thackeray had evidently set his heart on this home, and intended that it should be associated with his name. Reminded by a friend of the line in Horace about those who, oblivious of their sepulchres, build themselves houses, he retorted that he was not so forgetful, as the house he had built would always be valuable to his posterity. Yet the friend was right after all. Scarcely a week ago the place was empty—though it has found another tenant—and the people in charge and the police on the beat, when questioned, confessed that they had never heard the name of Thackeray, or knew that such an author had at any time existed.—London Daily Telegraph.
